

Ingredients in a Swirling Sunset Surprise

- Item which when its letters are alphabetized, is a string of consecutive letters with one missing
- Item which is next to two ingredients whose names begin with trees
- Item which, when its last letter is removed, does not change pronunciation
- Item which, if you remove the last two letters and move the fifth to the beginning, you get the name of an island
- Item which can be anagrammed to its position on its shelf
- Item that contains consecutive pairs of double letters
- Item that begins and ends with a US postal abbreviation